

300,000 MAY COME HOME EACH MONTH

GEN. MARCH SAYS SHIPPING ARRANGEMENTS MAKES SOLDIERS RETURN SPEEDY.

104,000 ALREADY HERE

Demobilization of 785,000 Soldiers in U. S. Camps Will Be Completed in 30 Days.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, Jan. 27.—General March, chief of staff, informed the senate military committee today that shipping arrangements had been made by which 300,000 men might be transported home monthly and that all of the American expeditionary force would be returned home and demobilized within six months.

How many Americans will be held in the army of occupation is not determined by President Wilson, Gen. March stated, but more Americans already have been designated to return home than originally provided for by the act.

There are still about 785,000 men in camp in the United States and all will be demobilized within a month from today except those retained for "overhead" duty. Gen. March added, 104,000 men had arrived from overseas.

Discussing demobilization plans, Gen. March said retention of an American standing army of 500,000 was proposed.

"We don't ever expect to reduce below 500,000 men—if we can help it," he said.

Tonnage sufficient to transport 300,000 men monthly will be available, he explained, through ships allotted by the allies combined with German passenger tonnage, and the negotiations are practically completed.

With about 1,800,000 Americans still overseas, the chief of staff said, a shipping schedule of 100,000 men monthly should make it possible to return and demobilize all within six months.

Return Men Rapidly.

"If the president agrees to leave ten divisions or whatever number in the army of occupation," he said, "the rest can be sent home from the camp in the next month from today except those retained for overhead duty."

Several senators said they had received many complaints because divisions which had seen long service overseas apparently were to be the last sent home.

Gen. March said, "I am sure that the policy Gen. March said, was strictly in accordance with military plans to hold experienced men in the army of occupation. Adding:

"I will not excite the Germans or able to run over them if necessary."

ATTACK MADE ON ESPIONAGE ACT IN U. S. SUPREME COURT

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, Jan. 27.—Oral arguments were heard today in the supreme court on the constitutionality of the espionage act, in the cases of Eugene V. Debs, socialist leader, convicted of violating the law in 1918, and Jacob Frohwerk of Kansas City, found guilty of writing seditious articles for the Missouri States Zeitung.

Counsel for the defendants attacked the act as an attempt to abridge the constitutional right of free speech and a free press. John Lord O'Brian, special assistant to the attorney general, contended that the law was necessary to protect the military program against all types of interference, and that since congress had the power to deprive men even of their lives for the purpose of raising an army, it surely could require citizens to refrain from deliberate obstruction of the process of obtaining necessary fighting equipment.

Unquestionable importance is attached to the Debs case by lawyers because they expect the court to make it the test proceedings in which it will pass upon the general validity of the act.

HANSON OF DANE COUNTY WILL OFFER RESOLUTION ASKING FEDERAL REPORT.

GROWERS WILL MEET

Problems of Growers Will Be Discussed at Gathering in Madison, Next Saturday.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Jan. 27.—Assemblyman U. C. Hanson of the second district of Dane county, wants to find out why the price of tobacco has tumbled since the opening of the world markets with the signing of the armistice. On Tuesday he will offer a resolution in the Wisconsin legislature pointing out that, during the fall of 1918 tobacco was selling at 40 cents a pound and with the signing of the armistice it has dropped to 20 cents a pound. His resolution is to ask the federal trade commission to furnish a report on the subject.

As head of the Wisconsin Tobacco Growers' association, Assemblyman Hanson is one of the best known in the tobacco industry and the district of Dane county, which he represents in the legislature is one of the largest tobacco centers in the United States. He has called a meeting of the tobacco growers at Madison, Saturday, Feb. 1, to discuss the tobacco problems.

INCREASE IN RATES DENIED GAS COMPANY BY COMMISSION

PERMISSION TO RAISE RATES ANOTHER TEN PER CENT. REFUSED BY STATE RAILROAD BOARD AT MADISON.

RULING MADE TODAY

Petition Sent to Commission at Madison Chins Company Is Operating at a Loss.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, Jan. 27.—An agreement on the administration bill appropriating $100,000,000 for European relief was reached today by the senate and house conferees after a brief session.

No material changes were made in the bill by the conferees. The senate amendments were adopted, including that by Senator Duffett providing that wheat donated should be bought as far as practicable in America.

Prohibition added by the senate against distribution of food to enemy peoples was approved by the conferees, but the provision was re-drafted so as to insure that Armenians and other friendly peoples in enemy territory might become the subjects of relief.

After an examination of the testimony offered several months ago, the Wisconsin Railroad Commission today announced that the application of the New Gas Light company for another increase in rates had been denied.

M. O. Mout, one of the attorneys representing the company, was asked for a statement regarding the matter and stated that he did not have anything to say regarding the decision of the commission. M. G. Jeffris, also an attorney for the company, is out of the city.

Shortly after the aldermanic form of government went into effect in this city the company petitioned the Wisconsin Railroad commission for permission to increase its rates ten per cent. The company has been granted a ten per cent increase a short time before the commission form of government went out of effect.

City Attorney Roger Cunningham at the request of the city council went to Madison the day the hearing was called and protested against giving the company another increase. Testimony was offered by both sides.

The gas company in its petition stated that owing to the shortage of labor and the high cost of material, and especially coal, it was necessary to have another increase in order to run the business at a profit.

In the petition it was stated that the cost of coal had jumped considerably and that a large amount of fuel was used and the increase in the price made it necessary that the company be allowed to charge a high rate.

Only one woman in a thousand, he said, would have such a fuzzy felt hat, a blue serge tailored suit, cashmere stockings with black and brown stripes, and silk underwear.

CUMMINS WOULD REVOKE POWER TO RETURN RAILROADS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, Jan. 27.—Revocation of President Wilson's power to return the railroads under government control to their private owners any time within 21 months after peace is declared, was proposed in a bill introduced today by Senator Cummins of Iowa, a republican member of the senate interstate commerce committee which is studying railroad legislation. It was referred to the committee. The measure provides that government control during the 21 months period shall be mandatory unless otherwise ordered.

Senator Cummins and many other members of congress oppose the carriers with further legislation, generally deemed impossible at the present session.

STATE FINANCIAL PROGRAMS TAKING SHAPE IN LEGISLATURE

COMMITTEE WILL PUSH WORK RAPIDLY TO EXPEDITE SESSION'S PROGRESS

PURSE STRINGS TIGHT

Only Urgent Calls for Increased Capital Budgets Will Be Favorably Considered.

By Fred L. Holmes.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 27.—The financial program of the Wisconsin legislature is being rounded rapidly into shape. Senator A. H. Wilkinson, chairman of the committee, said today that hearing on the capital department bills would be finished this week and that the committee would come up with a bill for hearing a week later. Usually the financial bills have been the last measures to be reported to the legislature and at some sessions have held up the legislature work.

"We expect to report all of the capital department bills during the week," said Wilkinson today. "The people of Wisconsin want a short session of the legislature and the finance committee will not take the blame for holding up legislative work. These financial measures are going to be sent out every day and we hope to complete all the finance committee work by March 1."

The finance committee is holding tight to the purse strings. Although every department of the capital is asking for an increase, only a few of the more urgent ones will be granted. The policy of the finance committee is to keep the expenses of the state within the state's revenues without additional taxes.

There appears every prospect that the peace conference will make rapid progress from now on with the work of fixing the peace terms for Germany. A high French diplomatic authority is quoted as estimating that the conference will have the peace terms ready for submission for ratification by the various national governments between the middle and the end of March. If this is accomplished, the German delegates will be summoned to Paris early in April for the conclusion of the peace.

Small Powers Meet.

The delegates of the small powers will meet at the foreign office this afternoon to choose their representatives to sit on the commissions provided for in the resolutions adopted by the peace congress on Saturday. It was expected that the small powers would have been chosen by the end of the day.

One of the questions which the council would consider today was the fate of the German colonies. France and Great Britain, it is declared, are agreed on at least one feature of the peace conference, that under no consideration shall the colonies revert to Germany. The reasons advanced for this are that it would be a precedent for the future and that it would be impossible for Germany to establish submarine bases in her colonial possessions.

U. S. Attitude Unchanged.

The American attitude is as yet unaltered. A prominent official declared to the Associated Press today that should the Franco-British view prevail, the German colonies would be taken over by the French in accordance with an agreement reached by Great Britain and France. Belgium lays claim to that part of the Congo which she conquered along the left bank of the Congo, the delimitation of course, to be settled amicably with Portugal, territorial compensation being given the latter.

Japan Against Expansion.

Paris, Jan. 26.—The Japanese delegation will in its attitude on questions coming before the peace congress, be inspired by sentiments expressed by Viscount Uchida, the Japanese minister, on the occasion of the meeting of the Japanese senate last week. Baron Makino, Japan's senior delegate, Baron Makino, told this to the Associated Press today. The Japanese will contribute in every way to the peace and neither expect nor desire any territorial expansion in China or Siberia, he said.

League Plans Discussed.

Paris, Jan. 26.—Leon Bourgeois, president of the French association for the society of nations, presided at this afternoon's meeting of the allied countries who have come to Paris to work for the adoption of the plan for a league of nations.

He asked the delegates present to formulate a program that might facilitate the task of the peace congress. Hamilton Holt, one of the American delegates, insisted on the necessity of formulating secret diplomacy. The meeting adopted a motion favoring the establishment of the league, and will continue its work tomorrow.

Paris, Jan. 27.—The council of ten, as the French now call the ministers of the five great powers, has before it for consideration today, among other things the questions of territorial adjustments, the abolition of conscription, and the economic reconstruction of Germany. These questions, in accordance with the settled method of procedure, will be referred by the council to suitable commissions.

There appears every prospect that the peace conference will make rapid progress from now on with the work of fixing the peace terms for Germany. A high French diplomatic authority is quoted as estimating that the conference will have the peace terms ready for submission for ratification by the various national governments between the middle and the end of March. ROCK COUNTY STOCK BREEDERS FAVOR PLAN TO ATTRACT BUYERS

SUGGEST FORMATION OF PURE BREED STOCK ASSOCIATION TO HOLD SALES.

DEMAND IS GREAT

Farmers are Frequently Called Upon By Other States To Supply Thoroughbreds.

Because of the frequent requests received by Rock county breeders from other all over the country for pure bred stock, some of the foremost breeders in this section of the county express themselves as being strongly in favor of the formation of a pure bred stock association to stage sales twice a year in Janesville. Buyers from every part of the country would no doubt be drawn to these sales, the breeders say, and Rock county farmers could make big sales of stock.

Last November local breeders shipped two carloads of pure bred stock to St. Louis buyers and one carload to California.

John L. Fisher Saturday received a request for a price on a carload of 40 pure bred half calves ranging in age from 4 to 12 months, from a breeder in Kansas. Several other requests of a similar nature have been received by local breeders in the last few months, so that it seems possible that with the formation of a pure bred stock breeders' association great results could be accomplished, local men say.

Some of the prominent breeders of Rock county who are in favor of the association plan are Dr. Wayne A. Munna, president of the Rock County Guernsey Breeders' association; J. J. McCann, secretary of the Rock County Durham Breeders' association; and John L. Fisher, secretary of the Rock County Holstein Breeders' association. Dr. Munna stated this morning in connection with the proposed association that it might be possible to hold sales twice yearly at the local pure bred stock show, which would bring in large numbers of big buyers, so that Rock county pure bred stock would be shipped to nearly every state in the Union.

FARMERS SEND GRAIN EXHIBITS TO MADISON

Several Rock county farmers have already forwarded their grain exhibits to Madison for the annual pure bred stock show which opens at the agronomy building February 4 and closes February 8. The judging will take place next Monday, so will be sent to Madison by Saturday of this week.

300 samples of Wisconsin grain are now in the hands of the secretary at Madison. H. A. Moore who has visited in many of the other states has been Judge and speaker says that the Wisconsin show is the best in the world, judged by the standard of quality. Special interest is shown in the place next Monday, so will be sent to Madison by Saturday of this week.

ASSESSING THE DAMAGES.

In a New York Tribune article, Andre Cheradame claims that the allies will have won nothing but a paper victory unless they make good on their promise of compensation for all damages done. There are many others who are conscious of this fact, but at present seem more concerned about the extent of Germany's war damage than of anything else. This seems the wrong way to secure justice, says an exchange.

The Versailles conference will be in the position of a court to decide action for damages, aggravated by malice. The proof is already in as to the defendant's guilt, and the main question now is the assessment of damages. Just as an action at law should be based upon the amount of damage suffered by an innocent plaintiff. The law gives judgment accordingly and entitles the same as alien against the defendant. The plaintiff's loss is to be paid in full to the defendant to worry over. The allies should first secure and enter their judgment for the full amount. Later they may find the defendant better able to pay than they now imagine.

But this is beside Mr. Cheradame's plea for full reparation. He points to the fact that because of its feeling of being cheated, Germany made its peace much cheaper than the allies. This is an indisputable fact, and should be taken into consideration. The terms of peace also should not nullify the rights of the German armies occupied towns or cities, houses were looted and furniture and household effects of every description were carried back to Germany. An official of the United States has given a description of such scenes witnessed by himself.

Machinery was taken from factories and shipped home. The countries were looted of everything of value that could be removed was taken to Germany. Today, German people wear the clothes and sleep on the beds taken from Belgium and French homes while their victims go without. Why look past the shivering victims and worry about how inconvenient it would be for Germany to pay for its crimes? Assess the damages in full, order the immediate return of all property that can be restored, and later, if Germany manifests a shred of repentance, there will be time to talk about remitting part of the judgment. But for the present press for judgment in full.

A CHIFFON VELVET AFTERNOON FROCK

Velvet seems to be the password at the informal and afternoon affairs as well as the formal affairs this season. Black chiffon velvet combined with the softest of white satin for collar and underwaist is cleverly draped in this simple, graceful gown copied from Lady Duff Gordon. There is a narrow panel in the back, which hangs loose and resembles a sash streamer more than anything else. The giraffe gives an odd finishing touch.

LOOKING AROUND

Officer Oscar Wikom claims this to be original. The reason the cops don't want Baker of Racine as the new chief is because wise birds will call the policemen "doughboys."

Sidney Eastwick and several others were seen running toward the restaurant after the retailers dinner on last Thursday. Sidney evidently worked so hard to make the event a success he forgot to eat when the time came.

Al. Grebe left this morning for a short visit at Fond du Lac. Clarence Sutherland claims he went to hunt rabbits around the city hall by the light of those kerosene lamps.

"Gene" Irish well known local prognosticator offers this one. If the sun sets clear on Friday night you can gamble that it will rain or snow before Monday. Did you see the sun set Friday night, "Gene"?

With the new chiefs to be appointed, the coming of the General Motors company and the high price of cigars, Frank Stevens has plenty of material for debate these times.

"It never rains but it pours? If you don't believe this ask one of the boys that made the trip in the Dodge car to Edgerton the other night."

Now that we have lived another Sunday with nothing to do, but listen to the rumble of the street cars maybe we can be persuaded to pay a visit to Beloit.

WILSON SEES WAR SCARS OF FRANCE IN BATTLEFIELD VISIT

pieces by the burning of the scaffolding when the Germans set fire to the roof of the church.
Ruins of statues lie about the side door and the great rose window, said to be the most beautiful in the world, shattered by shell fire until it looks like a camouflage set up by the enemy. Mr. Wilson followed the car, up the spiral to the top of the chapel, where, former kings watched through the night at the time of their anointing, and to the ruins of the mosaic, where a Flemish tapestry was hung.

He was shown where thousands of shells thrown from German batteries on two sides burst among the buttresses and where forests of sculptures which ornament the structure have been scoured, nicked and torn by fragments from the big shells, the very few of which ever reached the vault.

Historic Paintings Demolished.
Part of the vault, however, by a heap of twisted and crumpled wreckage, the main altar, where it was thrown by explosions which wrecked most of the stained glass in thirteenth century windows. Cardinal Luçon took Mr. Wilson down and they looked at the ruins through rubbish heaps to a point from which they could view the shell riddled painting of the last judgment above the altar door. The vaulted dome from Noah's Ark about the great rose window, the statue of St. Anne and dozens of other works of art, which virtually none escaped. As they left the cathedral the cardinal gave the president a stained glass panel from one of the windows taken down in time to save it. The panel is unscathed. It is circular and about the size of a diamond. It shows a figure of the Savior done in vari-colored glass of the early centuries.

From the cathedral, the president drove to the ruins of the town hall, a spacious specimen of the renaissance style of architecture, and the palace royal, an 18th century edifice. These two, with the cathedral, were the most celebrated historical monuments of Rheims, and not one has escaped.

CITY COUNCIL WILL MEET THIS EVENING
There will be a red hot meeting of the city council this evening. That is the opinion expressed by several in close touch with city affairs. There are several items on the agenda to come before the meeting this evening. The discussion of the new high school will undoubtedly be taken up at the meeting. The contract for the laying of the water mains on South Jackson street was awarded to J. P. Cullen by the Board of Public Works at their meeting Saturday night. Mr. Cullen was the only contractor to enter a bid with the exception of one man who offered to supervise the work if the city would furnish the material. The contract will be approved by the council this evening and work of laying the mains will start in a few days.

PILLSBURY MILLS SHUT; NO MARKET FOR FLOUR

Minneapolis, Jan. 27.—The Pillsbury mills were shut down entirely for the first time in many months. "We have made more flour than we could sell, so we shut down for a few days," said a representative of the company. He declared that the government has not bought flour for six weeks, and added: "We can't sell flour when we have no market for it."

ARMOUR DENIES PRICE AGREEMENT BETWEEN PACKERS

Washington, Jan. 27.—Cross examination of J. Ogden Armour by Francis J. Heney continued today at the senate agriculture committee's hearing on legislation to regulate the meat industry, with Mr. Heney seeking to establish and Mr. Armour denying that the big packers arbitrarily fixed cattle prices.
Chicago prices largely determine quotations at other markets, Mr. Armour testified, and Armour and Company's buyers in other cities are constantly addressed as to the situation. "Don't the packers in that way control prices everywhere," asked Mr. Heney.

"They have a great deal to do with the price," the witness replied, "but not everything."

Mr. Heney contended that the big packers favored friendly commission men and punished those who did not "accept the packers' viewpoint of the meat industry."

In this way, he said, producers learned that friendly commission get better prices and consequently the others were driven out.

"Haven't the five big packers discussed having elected friendly officers of stock exchanges and cattlemen's associations?" asked Mr. Heney.

"That's quite natural to desire that," said Mr. Armour, "but the packers haven't joined in discussing it."

23 HENS LOAFING-- 11 EGGS A DAY NOW

Zero weather, but Mrs. Bariz Got the Eggs. Plan is Easily Tried

"My hens had not been laying at all. I got my first eggs the 17th day after I started feeding them," Don Sung, Chinese, now residing in Janesville, says. He has 23 hens, and below zero weather all the time. Mrs. Chas. Bariz, who lives in Janesville, Wis., writes this letter Feb. 23, 1919, after testing Don Sung in a way you can see for yourself. It is probably as well. It costs nothing to try. Here is the same offer we made her.

Give your hens Don Sung and watch results for one month. If you don't find that Don Sung pays for itself, simply tell us and your money will be refunded.

Don Sung (Chinese for egg-laying) works directly on the egg laying organs, and is also a splendid tonic for the hen's health, makes her stronger and more active in any weather and in any laying.

Try Don Sung for 30 days and if it doesn't get your eggs going, your money will be refunded by return mail. Get Don Sung from your druggist, poultry remedy dealer or send 50 cents today for a package by mail prepaid. Burrell-Bugger Co., 249 Columbia Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor: In his letter to the Gazette last Saturday, Alderman Thomas Welsh declares that there is no one in Janesville more optimistic than he. But I submit that he is mistaken. His communication, I am sorry to say, is wholly pessimistic. It is a general knock.

Among other things he warns the public that the board of education is planning three more big schools, besides the one now under construction. He announces that he will vote for only so much site, and opposes building three more schools. He also declares that the board of education is planning to buy books by the board of education for all pupils, calls attention to the great expenditure for books in the board's reports, and intimates that the board is holding the people in their pockets where the people can express themselves about it.

In answer to the last suggestion let me say that the regular meetings of the board of education are held at the high school at 7:30 p. m. upon the first Tuesday of each month, and that they are open to the public and all ways have been made for the judgment and advice of all these bodies upon the questions of building a new high school and choosing its site. And it was there announced that the board of education had made no definite plans about other schools, and would not make any until it had consulted all those bodies at a future conference. Then the matters of the new high school and site were thrown upon which rests upon all. I have asked the head of schools, to write upon this important subject for the Gazette, and since I know that Welsh is all ways means to be fair, I believe when he reads Prof. Hooper's communication he will admit that he wrote hastily about the city's buying books, and without giving the matter investigation or thought.

I cannot close without expressing my disappointment and regret at Mr. Welsh's attitude on these important questions. Just as he assures us that he is an optimist, and then fills his letter with forebodings and warnings, so he next tells us that he favors the board of education's efforts to get a new school, and proceeds to discredit the board and its work and its plans. If anyone had asked me last week I should have said confidently that Mr. Welsh could be relied upon to be a powerful advocate of the better schools and grounds so sadly needed by the children, and so urgently necessary to the future of Janesville. And if, as I have heard suggested, it is a too-high sense of his duty as chairman of the finance committee of the council that has caused his change in him, then I most earnestly hope that Mr. Welsh may be given some other chairmanship, so that his ability and influence, as a booster of Janesville may be restored to us.

January 27, 1919.

To the Editor:

In regard to criticisms which have been made concerning the projected site of the high school on South Main street being flooded every spring, I have a few things to say. In the first place the whole property from Racine street north for two-thirds of its length and taking in the Dudley place is several feet above high water. The only place which is low is the site of the hotel, and that is only low during very high water in the spring. The fill of one to three feet along the river bank on these two lots, would prevent this flow and would benefit the trees, many of which have their roots washed out by the spring rains.

That amount of fill would be enough to raise the grade above the high water, which ordinarily occurs in the spring. The space included in the low area is about 10 rods. When buildings are erected with their extensive cellars and basements, the water will fill up the depression. Have never known of water in the cellars, on any lot on the site.

As the statement made that property will not advance, on this property and that if the council allow purchase on half the site until a later date, that it can be purchased upon the usual price, ten years ago, the council seem to be foolish on the face of it.

I have talked with a number of property owners, across the street and have found that one who thinks his property will depreciate in value, in case the school is located there. In fact we are looking for a substantial raise in price, even if the school goes somewhere else.

If the buildings are located on one half of the property, with the expectation of buying the rest of the site, later, the school board is looking for a substantial raise in price, even if the school goes somewhere else.

Wisconsin Conservation Commission

Division of Fisheries, by James Nevin. Changing Food Conditions of the Trout Family. Fish and Game Within the State Are the Property of the People.

The degree of success achieved in planting fish is determined by the conditions of the water in which they are planted. Some lakes and streams are more productive of fish and the life upon which fish feed than others. The problem with which we are confronted is how can these conditions be maintained? The farmer that sows and reaps without returning anything to the soil, soon has a barren field. We have been planting fish in streams for years and the time has arrived when many of our streams cannot support greater number of game fish and the question to be solved is what can be done to restore these streams to their former pristine conditions so they can be stocked to meet the increased demand.

The principal food of large and small trout and which is in most all spring water streams, is a crustacea called caddis. The caddis larva is a wormlike creature found in the streams and looks as if it might be increased in a large stream. The older larva and pupae. Then again, in most all of our spring water holes, where watercress will grow, there will be found numbers of fresh water shrimp. Found all along the stream clinging to roots, logs or stones as they drift along down the stream, and the fish feed upon them.

Brook trout prefer streams that contain hiding places and clear spring water with a maximum temperature of about 60 degrees. In many of the counties of the state intensive farming has caused the removal of brush and trees from the banks of streams, destroying the conditions that provided natural haunts for the fish. Many farmers set aside for pasture that portion of their farms through which the stream flows. Cattle and hogs wade and wallow in the stream, making it unfit for trout, with the consequence that the fish move away or die. After a strong rainfall the wash from cultivated fields also makes the largest and most thriving cities in the land. But on the other hand, why proclaim to the world, Janesville, such a relic of past ages? If we desire an increase in population, better to practice what you preach, boost all the time!

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, Jan. 27, 1879.—Yesterday afternoon as Mr. Crandall of Harmony was driving up Main street his steed slipped and fell, breaking a thigh bone. The horse was so badly injured as to render his recovery hopeless and he was consequently relieved of further suffering by having his throat cut and the remains were immediately interred in the stomachs of Burr Robbins' wild animals.

Dr. Judd started this morning for a six months' trip to Texas and Mexico. His many friends wish him a safe and joyous journey.

George H. Broderick of Chicago, who has been visiting here, has been engaged by Col. Mapleson's troupe. He is to join the troupe in New York and has signed a six-year contract for $8,000.

The temperance organization known as the True Helpers, connected with the All Souls church, yesterday held their quarterly exercises and elected Rev. J. J. Jones president; Miss Ida Harris, secretary and treasurer, and Clarence Conant, Willie Buchholz and Charlotte Richards, directors. City Clerk Burgess is confined to his home with a cold, but expects to be out this evening and give his views of Felix Holt at the M. I. C.

One of Burr Robbins' ring horses was taken sick this morning and before aid could be had he had curled up and died. The horse was a valuable one.

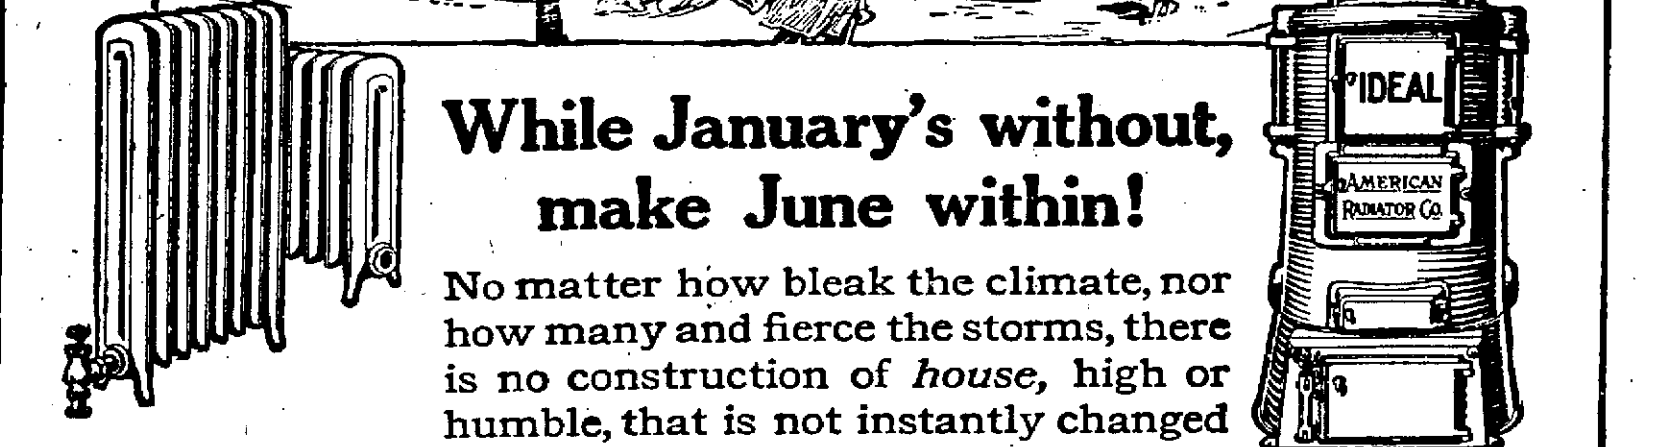

There will be a free musical at Miss Bate's room this evening. The musical features of the evening will be furnished by Miss Battle, Miss Ada Eldred, Miss Emma Baldwin, Miss Fannie Sheldon, C. D. Evans, Miss Annie Harris and Miss V. J. Anderson. Readings will be given by Miss Mary Pond, Miss Mary Barnard and Mrs. Day.

PEACE PROGRESS.
The progress being made by the peace conference gives encouragement to the thought that the ideals suggested, before the armistice was declared, by President Wilson would be worked out with rapidly and satisfaction.

One of the most encouraging angles to the manner in which the congress is working is the absence of delay at getting at the important things which must be threshed out. Many have held the opinion before actual work began that there would be more or less jockeying for positions and that the real work would not be started at once.

But at the second conference session, the big things were undertaken, resolutions adopted and committees appointed so that the definite shaping of the suggestions may be carried out quickly.

The congress, as was expected, came out without hesitation and declared that steps had to be taken to avert future wars, and in the same breath asserted those who were responsible for this one should be punished. Instead of providing an opportunity for a long-drawn discussion within the congress, the details are left to international experts so that the congress can devote its time to the bigger problems and be ready to make final decisions.

The outstanding feature in the discussion of the league of nations plan was the humanitarian spirit which was continually in the foreground.
President Wilson in opening the discussion declared that America's advocacy of the league was not caused by fear of its safety, but was the result of humanitarian ideas. "The league of nations," he said, "seems necessary to me, both in reaching the conclusion of peace and preserving the peace of the world. Some questions are not susceptible to competent judgment, but possibly may need readjustment in the future. We are not the representatives of governments, but of peoples. It is not sufficient to satisfy our governments; we must satisfy mankind."

"There is no need to tell you how the burden has fallen on the men, women and children; how the burden
has fallen on the hearts of humanity.
We are called upon to prevent this burden from falling on them again.
Sentimentality may be temporary but the actions of governments must be permanent."

"The powers of destruction have not so much multiplied, they have gained facilities. It is essential that science as well as armed men must be kept in harness by civilization."

PRESIDENTIAL TIMBER.

The republicans have been lining up probable standard-bearers for 1920 and many have been mentioned as presidential timber that could put the democrats to rout.

Gen. Pershing has been prominently advertised as the one man who could win votes for the party because of his record in France and because of his popularity. Gen. Leonard Wood also has been suggested.

Great credit must be given both these men for their part in the war.
Gen. Pershing has done a big job well.
He is the idol of the American people and no doubt could poll a big vote
if he became a presidential candidate.
However, Gen. Pershing is a soldier, not a statesman. He has been trained for the business in which he is engaged, that of a soldier. He is a diplomat, as has been proven, and he has represented the United States in Europe with credit to both the nation and himself.

But with the great problems of reconstruction both in Europe and this country before us, we need a man in the presidential chair who is something more than a soldier and a diplomat. We need a man who can handle the biggest economic problems we have ever faced. We need a man with progressive ideas; a middle ground man, if you please, who will be safe, sure and tireless in aiding in bringing this country back to as normal a condition as possible.

The old-time stand-pat republican would not fit in with the present scheme of things; the ultra radical "progressive" who would turn everything upside down in an attempt to carry out idealistic theories would be impossible.

Senator Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, is looked upon at this time as a candidate who would be able to measure up to the progressive standards of the republican party. Leaders believe he would be able to put through a sane program.

CURBING PROPAGANDISTS.
Action on the part of congress to curb secret anti-American influences similar to those which were present in every community in the nation before and during the war will meet with the approval of real Americans who believe this should be a nation for Americans.

The move is made since disclosures of the ease and thoroughness with which German agents worked have been uncovered.

Among the proposals under consideration by the senate committee on judiciary are these: Registration of propagandists; broadening of the operation of propagandists; closer supervision of the foreign language press and legislation to force disclosure of secret control of newspapers.

It is believed that with the enactment of this legislation the secret propagandists will be driven into the open.

The registration plan proposes that agents of foreign governments or of American organizations engaged in the effort to influence the American public through speech or writing shall be required to register with designated public officials. Penalties would be provided for failure to register, thus affording ground for the punishment of persons found to be conducting secret propaganda.

Chairman Overman of the investigating committee, in discussing the situation said:
"We have learned some startling things about what is going on in this country. We surely will do all that can be done to prevent any such things in the future. Constructive legislation based on the disclosures and aimed to control both aliens and our own citizens has been shown to be needed."

ARMENIAN RELIEF FUND.
Janesville has been asked to respond to another humanitarian appeal. The committee in charge of the campaign for relief for Armenians and Syrians in the near East will start to collect $4,000 which has been designated as this city's share of the general fund which is being raised in the United States.

Thousands of Armenians and Syrians are starving and the United States as the generous protector of the unfortunate will give freely to the women and children who are without bread.

The committee will start Wednesday morning to obtain donations for this fund. All those who feel they are able to help in this humanitarian movement are urged to respond generously.

The prices of butter and eggs to the wholesalers have been lowered considerably and it is reasonable to expect that as soon as the retail dealers have gotten rid of the consignments of those commodities for which they had to pay the prices prevailing before the drop, they will give the consumer the advantage of the decrease.

"The action taken by the council, school boards and Chamber of Commerce in selecting a site and making tentative plans for a high school has brought forth many arguments pro and con. This is natural and it is the desire of the Gazette to publish the opinions of those who wish to express them."

Well, the sun finally accepted the inevitable and stuck on the job until most of the snow has been removed from Janesville sidewalks.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

ROY K. ROULFON

THE LAST WAIL BEFORE WE GO DIX.

(By a contrib. in Brooklyn.)
The ice-man is a pleasant soul.
He is a man of cheer.
He drops a cake within the box
And drinks one pint of beer.

The grocery boy delivers eggs.
The fruit that is most dear.
He puts them in the icebox and
He drinks one pint of beer.

The plumber comes to fix the pipes
And, with a knowing leer,
He straightway finds the icebox and
He drinks three pints of beer.

But when I am athirst myself,
And seek the cheer that flows,
I find my icebox empty and I hustle down to Joe's.

An Illinois couple, after praying for forty years for a baby, inserted a want advertisement in the local newspaper and within an hour after the paper was delivered a baby was left on the doorstep with the admonition to care for the same tenderly and truly. Most people will admit praying is all right if you are not in a hurry, but for quick results you must advertise.

NEW LYRICS.
My grocer said:
"Why, sakes alive,
Why kick on eggs at seventy-five?
That's not so much.
Cheer up, you toon,
They're going to be a dollar soon.
The price will be much higher for They've gone and stopped the awful war."

The Seymour skirt is out of style.
The new one will be longer.
It will come to the shoe tops, while
The price will be much stronger.
A fashion journal just from France
Brings this news o'er the sea,
But may we ask a word, perchance?
Where will the shoe tops be?

"It always pays," writes Corinne Love in Fashion's Blue Book, "to look back and see what Minerva wore around the Acropolis." But if one is leading back Corinne, why not lead back to Eve?—B. L. T.

WHO'S WHO in the Day's News

GRIG. GEN. VANDERBILT
Brig. Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt has received from Washington announcement of his honorable discharge from the army. He will resume the management of his personal interests, from which he has been absent for nearly three years.

After devoting several years to the interests of the
New York
national guard,
the then Colonel Vanderbilt accepted a reduction in rank to take part as major in active service in the campaign of 1918.
When the troops were reorganized
he was made colonel of the Twenty-second New York engineers.

When the European country entered the Colonel Vanderbilt went into training at Camp Wadsworth, where his regiment was made into the One Hundred and Second engineers, and sent to France. While in France he received his promotion to brigadier-general and an appointment to command at Camp Lewis, Washington.

Origin of "Pagoda."
The word "pagoda" is not Chinese.
It is believed to have come either from the Persian or the Hindustani, and means "a white bone tower." As far back as their history dates the Chinese have always built lofty towers.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

PHILOSOPHY.

He lived a calm and contented life.
There with his children and his wife,
And, although his home was small
And plain,
He loved it more than fame or gain.
He had a curious notion, which Kept him from envying the rich,
And many a time he used to say:
"These walls keep every wind away,
These chairs and tables are not mine,
But they serve every need of mine,
And love abides within our door.
What man of wealth possesses more?"

"At night when I turn into bed
Peace pillows here my weary head.
I soundly sleep the night hours through,
Can more than that a rich man do?
We've all we wish to eat and wear
And mother in her rocking chair,
Sings nightly all the lullabies
Which sooth and close the baby's eyes.

More sweetly mother couldn't sing
Within the palace of a king.
Here let me live and let me die,
No millionaire has more than I."

"A rich man's home is fine to see,
But it would not be home to me,
Nor would I find one touch of cheer
That is not mine to know right here.
The sunbeams find my window panes,
My roof is shelter when it rains,
And when winter brings a storm,
As all the rich, we're just as warm.
Here love and laughter fill the day,
Here we can sing and romp and play,
Here we have all that goes to buy,
No man of wealth has more than I."

Raised the Temperature.
"What's the temperature in this room?" growled Mr. Blowster, after fidgeting for several minutes. "It was only 70 degrees when you began to fret and fume," answered Mrs. Blow-ster, without looking at the thermometer, "but I dare say it's much higher now."

NEW YORK MUSIC TEACHER

Says "Vinol" Cures Chronic Coughs
New York City, 121 Nicholas Avenue. "I teach piano and singing and when suffering from chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis, I use Vinol as I find it cures when other remedies fail."

The reason Vinol is so successful in such conditions, is because it is a constitutional remedy containing beef and cod liver peptones, iron and man-ganese peptones and glycerophos-phates. It strengthens and revitalizes the entire system and assists nature to expel the disease.

We know of many cases, Smith Drug Co. Vinol is sold in redbox by W. J. Smith and druggists everywhere.

Entire Park Board Resigns

Sheboygan.—As a result of charges made against the Park Board without giving them the privilege of a hearing, the city of Sheboygan is without a Park Board and a superintendent for every member of that body has resigned. The board has been criticized as having "shown a lack of intelligent supervision and business administration, as well as wanton disregard of the public welfare."

The action on the part of the members of the Park Board grew out of a charge made by the councilman, that they had allowed the cutting down of sound trees and disposed of the wood.

Sheboygan.—Private Arthur Hader,

Appleton.—Ralph Blessman, son of

has gone to Milwaukee, to re-enlist in the United States Navy. He recently returned home after serving in the navy four years, during which time he was in the foreign duty for eighteen months as first class quartermaster on a torpedo destroyer.

Wounded Soldier Gets Ovation
Marquette.—Private Edward Ellison, wounded in the battle of the Marne,
while fighting with the 32nd division,
has arrived at his home town Peshtigo.
A throng of citizens and school children met him at the station and escorted him to the home of his parents. He was the first wounded hero to return to Peshtigo. The song of the school children greeted him when he stepped off the train and a parade

FATHER MAHONEY SPEAKS AT K. OF C. MEMORIAL SERVICES

Former Assistant Pastor of St. Patrick's Church Returns to Janesville For Annual Services.

Rev. Father Mahoney, formerly assistant pastor of St. Patrick's church in this city, gave an inspiring address at the memorial services of the Knights of Columbus held yesterday afternoon.

Rev. Mahoney's address was one of the finest he ever has delivered in this city. He paid a wonderful tribute to the American soldiers and also spoke of the work done and to be done elsewhere by the Knights of Columbus.

His address was full of pathos and several times he had the audience on the verge of tears. He spoke with his usual vigor and at all times had the audience applauding.

Father Mahoney told of the many sacrifices made in this country during the war and also told of the many brave deeds of the Yankee fighters in France. His tribute to the dead soldiers was most fitting and coming from such a speaker made a deep impression on his audience.

He also spoke of the departed members of Carrol Council No. 598 Knights of Columbus and the tribute paid the members was one of the finest ever given in Janesville.

Several other addresses were given by members of the lodge. About three hundred attended the services.

DRINKER CLAIMS HE IS UNABLE TO STAY AWAY FROM THIS CITY

"If Janesville had a drawing power for respectable men similar to the drawing power it has over drunks, I should have a population equal to New York," Judge Maxfield said in the municipal court this morning when sentencing August Johnson for drunkenness.

Johnson made a feeble excuse that he would try and keep away from Janesville in the future but he was not sure whether he could stand the temptation or not. He was fined $15 and costs and will have to stay away for the next 20 days unless he digs up the money.

Vincent McSorley was given a severe reprimand by the judge when he entered a plea of guilty to the charge of drunkenness. McSorley was in jail here a short time ago and stated that a fine of $25 did not make much of an impression on him. He was fined with the promise that he would be given a great deal more the next time he arrived here.

Then came Edward Pelows, a good hard working old man who claims that he has to get drunk so often and never accuses anyone of getting him drunk. He was fined $15 or 20 days.

High School News

A genuine pep meeting was held Friday afternoon at the high school. The school was in session the next day and was not dismissed so that all were in attendance. Herbert Allen, president of the Athletic association, at the request of Geo. A. Bassford, at the charge of the meeting. Kert Fuchs led the cheers, after each speaker had finished. Sprinkling, Nuzum, Decker and Sparks all took part in the game. Madison and the season's prospects. Several of the girls who were at Madison were called on to give their impression of the game. The meeting ended with school songs and cheers.

Mrs. Jeanne R. Whitte will leave the local high school within the next two weeks and go to Minneapolis, where she will take up a position in one of the high schools in that city. Mrs. Whitte has been instructor in French at the high school for several years.

The "Hi Y" club, composed of the upper classmen of the high school, met last evening for its usual Monday night gathering. Several matters of interest will be taken up.

Only one more week remains in the present semester, after which the semi-annual exams will be given. Principal Bassford is now working on the examination schedule. It will be announced in a few days.

The basketball team will go through a strenuous practice tonight, in preparation for the game with Evansville, which will be played at 8 o'clock Saturday night. Evansville has defeated Madison and Beloit and is reported to have a championship team. The game promises to be a hard one for the locals, but every effort will be made to have a squad out that will put up a game fight.

DEFECTIVE CHIMNEY CALLS OUT THE FIRE DEPARTMENT SATURDAY

A fire caused by a defective chimney called the department to the home of R. Blakely, 508 South Main street about seven o'clock Saturday evening. The call came from box 22 and all of the available apparatus with the exception of the aerial ladder was called out. Chemicals were used to extinguish the blaze. Chief Klein stated that the damage was nominal.

JANESVILLE POLICE RECOVER STOLEN CAR

Quick work on the part of the Janesville police on Saturday evening resulted in the finding of a stolen automobile owned by the Buggs garage. The car was found on the river road about three miles north of Beloit. Chief Champion received a call about eight o'clock Saturday evening informing him that a Ford touring car was stolen from in front of the Putnam store on South Main street. Instructions were immediately issued to the men to watch for the car and Chief Champion telephoned to Beloit. A short time later the car was found in good condition standing in the road.

BAPTIST PASTOR URGES SIMPLICITY IN CHURCH SERMONS

With a warning that there had been a great change in the terminology of the gospel message since the beginning of the war, to meet changing conditions, Rev. Raymond C. Phelps, pastor of the Baptist church on a Vernacular Religion. He made plain the thought that to be effective, a religious address must be brief to the point, and simple so that a child would understand it.

He described Christianity as being something alive, and growing in every human heart, and not something mysterious and supernatural coming down through the ages.

He said that the average man likes to hear the gospel, in terms which he can understand. It is brought to the church in the terms of theology. It goes over the heads of the people. "No abstract message," he said, "would do for this time and place."

He cited the fact that there were 165,000 sermons being preached throughout the United States, and that if they made no impression on the listeners, the time and effort was lost. "In spite of the fact that man is a religious creature," he said, "there is a constant battle on between religion and apathy and antagonism."

He said that the man must be a religion adequate for all calls made upon it. "It must be fit for the cultured, and the ignorant, the white and the colored, the savage and the Christian."

He contended that Christianity was a universal religion, understandable by the Hottentot, or the Chinese, and equally at home in this country, and in the past. He described the condition of the church, when the old bibles available were written in Latin, or Greek, and said that a great advance was made when it was printed in English.

He showed that the teachings of Jesus were those that could be understood by the men of the streets, and the simple fishermen by the sea. He said that the men of the streets and the simple fishermen by the sea, they were the ones who could understand.

The speaker dwelt on the many problems of international life to be solved at this time, and that they would take serious consideration, that they be solved right.

He mentioned vice, prohibition, health of communities, and brotherhood in industrial relations. All of these, if considered in the spirit of Jesus Christ, he thought, become the hope and glory of the world.

He considered that the task of religion was to help solve the common problems of life, and that this work was more than forms, dogmas, doctrines, histories, or words, and that it was bringing to others part of the heavenly light of man, until he could see God.

He closed by the statement that "our religion should be an enabling of the truth of the living God, that it should make an impression because people could understand it."

A children's sermon given as preliminary to his address, took up a simple comparison which they could understand of the similarity of their lives with that of a pencil. He brought out the idea that the outside did not matter, that it was the real work done by inside, which counted, and that every boy and girl to be useful, must be trained, just as the pencil is sharpened to do good work.

In the Beloit which has a membership of 650. It takes in all classes of young women, college girls, high school girls and employed girls, and has various activities which can interest all of them.

The recently moved into handsome and artistic quarters, where club rooms for parties, classes, and various events are held. Whose? Likelihood that something along that line will be attempted in Janesville, a group of Janesville women will go down to Beloit tomorrow and find out more of the particulars of the organization and visit the club rooms. Any Janesville women who are interested are invited to join the party, who will go on the two o'clock car on Tuesday.

Y. M. C. A. WILL WIDEN SCOPE OF WORK HERE; NEW CLUBS PLANNED

Definite plans for the widening of the scope of the local Y. M. C. A.'s work among boys of the city have been completed by Boys' Work Secretary A. C. Phelps, and action steps will be taken immediately. Added to the work which has been done in the past, new clubs for employed boys, new boys' and grade school boys will be formed.

In the formation of these new societies it is the aim to reach not only members of the Y. M. C. A., every boy in the city will have an opportunity to enter one of these clubs. At present the high school youths are the only ones who are organized for work.

For the upper classes, the Y. M. C. A. has been working for the past two years of high school are members of the Triangle club.

Ever since taking over the position of boys' secretary, in September, Mr. Phelps has felt the need of extending the social work to reach a larger number of boys. He quickly recognized the fact that while the boys' committee was working well, it was not large enough to handle all the work. For the past four months he has been laying plans for the extension of it and has now completed a complete program of definite outlines for the work.

He has re-organized the committee so that it now consists of six members, each taking the responsibility of a particular group. The new committee is composed of the following men: the names of the clubs over which they will have supervision is also given.

Hi-Y club, R. G. Pierson; Triangle club, J. R. Jensen; employed boys, J. J. Cunningham; newboys, C. J. Smith; grade school boys, J. J. Smith; rooms committee, J. R. Nichols.

FEWER DISCHARGED SOLDIERS JOBLESS; POSITIONS OFFERED

Two unemployed soldiers have been given positions and there are openings for one or two more, according to Fred C. Schmitt, manager of United States Employment Service bureau. This leaves a total of 13 discharged army and navy men still looking for work.

Requests made Saturday that those having work in either temporary or permanent, report it to Mr. Schmitt, are expected to bring results today. It is probable that the response in the city will be strong enough to give all of these men jobs, Mr. Schmitt said.

The unemployment situation, which reached its high level Saturday with 15 soldiers out of work, has already begun to ease to the point where it is probable that no man will be discharged from the service against his will unless he has promise of a position.

NEAR EAST RELIEF CAMPAIGN IN COUNTY COMMENCES TODAY

The campaign for relief in the near east, which will start in the city today, evening, began throughout the county today. Due to bad road conditions, it is expected that the solicitation of funds will be somewhat delayed. The solicitation of the county districts will not be canvassed until late in the week, according to Senator Whitehead, county committee chairman.

A total of $14,500 is to be raised in the county. Janesville's share of this amount is $4,000. The city committee are laying extensive plans for a strong campaign which will start Wednesday and last until the end of the week. It is hoped by Senator Whitehead that the city may report its quota of the fund filled by that time.

It was learned today that Aurora Mandragian, the Armenian girl savior, who came to America to enlist this country for her starving countrymen, has broken down from her sufferings and will not be able to come west to deliver the addresses which had been planned for her in this state. The girl, who is only 17, was mistreated for two years in the Turkey. She is the only woman to escape their clutches, walked 1,400 miles to escape, and then came to America to beg for help for Armenia. She was only a story of her own sufferings, and this has been dramatized and put on the film as a picture of what has happened under the Turkish rule. She has been taken down in health under the strain, and has been forbidden to travel.

PRIV. TEAD MC CARTHY BACK FROM OVERSEAS

Company M. Member Receives Honorable Discharge From Army After Being Gassed During Engagement.

To be told of his brother's death of pneumonia in France was the news which awaited Private Tead McCarthy of Company M when he returned on Saturday evening after spending the past nine months overseas.

Private McCarthy left this city with Company M and was gassed and wounded during the battle of Chateau Thierry. He was confined to a base hospital in France for several weeks and arrived in this country about ten days ago. He has received an honorable discharge.

Private McCarthy's brother, Howard, died in France of pneumonia on January 9. Word of his death was received by his parents a few hours before the returning hero arrived home.

Private McCarthy participated in some of the biggest battles of the war and luckily escaped any serious injury. During one battle he suffered two injured ribs which, however, did not hamper him from going after the Germans. He was at Chateau Thierry woods, and several other big fights.

He is a modest young man and in discussing the war tells of the many brave deeds of his comrades but he seems to forget the deeds he performed himself. He absolutely refuses to discuss them and when questioned simply states that he thinks he got a few Germans.

Success is won only by the physically fit, the mentally strong.

Prepare your children now. To do so is not only your maternal responsibility, but it is your patriotic duty as well.

Begin today and feed each child in your household at least a quart of milk per day. Build up their minds, their bodies. Ensure them a place in the march of the strong and the fit.

MILK—THE PROTECTIVE FOOD

Milk is the one incomparable food in the human diet. Professor McCollum has conclusively demonstrated that there is no substitute for it. Milk makes good the deficiencies of all other foods.

Milk alone contains the strengthening essentials necessary to life, health and growth. Milk is a substitute for all foods, but there is no substitute for milk.

Children must have milk to live and grow. It is the protective food for adults, renewing and re-energizing both body and brain.

Court Fixed the Cost

When an estate is to be settled, the Probate Judge passes on the charges of the Executor and determines what shall be paid. His decision does not depend upon WHO does the work. It all depends upon what has to be done.

The Trust Company, with all its special training and equipment for this work gets just the same fees that are paid to the private executor.

Settling an estate is a task for experts. Many times problems come up that requires careful management to avoid serious losses for the heirs.

The Trust Company often saves more than its fee and gives the family many little helpful services too that would be impossible for the old method. Think it over.

Training School Notes

New Courses of Study. The State Superintendent, C. P. Carr, has recently approved new courses of study for the training school. These courses embody the new requirements of the state department and they also exemplify the latest ideas and principles in educational theory and practice. This new schedule of subjects is now in operation and the present senior class will do the required work.

Some Reference Dates. The present quarter, which began on December 2, will close February 13. The quarter examinations will occur February 11, 12, and 13. The third quarter will begin on Friday, February 14. In order to make up some of the lost time, and in order to close school as early as possible in June, school will be conducted on four Saturdays, March 1, March 15, March 22, and April 5.

The present plan is for the faculty and seniors to go to Madison on June 12 and to have the graduating exercises on Saturday, June 14. By having the alumnae dinner and program on Saturday it is hoped that it will be a number of the graduates of the school may attend.

The Saturday sessions will extend from 8:15 to 11:45. All of the academic work will be done, but there will be no observation and practice.

Substitute in Footville. Miss Bessie Billings of the senior class is spending a week doing substitute work in the senior school at Footville, in the absence of the regular teacher, who is ill. Miss Billings is teaching the pupils of the fifth and eighth grades.

Teacher for First Sister. Miss Julia Donahue of the class of 1919 has recently spent a week teaching for her sister, Margaret Donahue, who is the regular teacher in District No. 2, town of Porter and Center. This school is closed at present on account of the influenza among the pupils.

Professor Arbuthnot Lectures. Professor John Arbuthnot of the high school has given the members of the physical geography class a very practical and helpful illustrated talk on applications of the principle of air pressure and other laws in physics. Several entertaining and instructive experiments were performed. The members of the class have now a much clearer knowledge of the phenomena and similar measuring instruments.

Conclude Domestic Science Course. Miss Beth Palmer, the instructor in cooking and sewing, will conclude her work on Wednesday of next week. Miss Palmer will do similar work in the Rock County training school at Ladysmith in April. Special attention has been given to the subject of warm lunches in the country schools. Attendance Meeting of Principals. Principle Lowth spent Friday and Saturday in Madison attending a meeting of the state training school principals' association. The association went on record as favoring a minimum salary of $80 a month, instead of $44, and also voted that the new requiring all teachers to be high school graduates be postponed in its effective operation from 1921 to 1925. This action seems necessary on account of the great scarcity of teachers.

Presents Attractive Programs. The Philomathean Literary Society has given many very good programs this year under the direction of Miss Dabson. Some of the musical numbers have been particularly attractive. A recent program was devoted entirely to music, and several young women gave practical demonstrations in singing and in piano and violin playing. The Burns program this week was illustrated with Scotch songs and other music, and Thelma Davis gave a skillful presentation of the Highland Fling. The Victrola has also been used for demonstration purposes.

Can Enter Creditably. New students can begin with profit on Friday, February 14. At that time new classes will be organized in school management, geography methods, civics, reading, Audubon, sewing, instruction, observation and practice, American literature, and American history.

Speaks in Beloit. Principal F. J. Lowth recently talked to the Sunday school teachers of the Beloit Second Congregational church on the subject of "Teacher Training." Mr. Lowth is scheduled to speak at Beloit college on "The Importance of Education and Training in the Moral and Religious Life." Material For Bird Study.

Teachers should send to the National association of such colleges, 1914 Broadway, New York, for printed material relating to the formation of Junior Audubon classes. The organization of such classes in the schools will prove of much interest to the pupils, and will be of value in protecting bird life. For the fee of ten cents, each child is provided with an attractive Audubon button, pictures, leaflets, an outline drawing of eight birds, and an Audubon pocket bird collection.

Principal Halo Visits School. Principal John E. Hale of the Outagamie County Training school, located at South Kaukauna, spent an entire day at the Rock County school recently. Mr. Hale was greatly pleased with the equipment and the work of the Janesville school. In the afternoon a trip was taken to the State school for the blind, where the singing and orchestra music of the students was especially enjoyed.

Special Instruction in Penmanship. Miss Archie L. Dickson, a special representative of the Palmer School of Penmanship, has been giving the students some expert advice and training concerning the work in writing. Miss Dickson's enthusiasm served as an inspiration to those who are working for proficiency in the teaching of writing.

February Bulletin Issued. The February issue of the County Educational Bulletin will go out to school officers and teachers on Monday. This is the sixth number of volume five. The bulletin is an indispensable means by which the superintendent and training school principals keep in touch with the various problems of the county educational situation.

Sample Traveling Library Exhibit. After the training school is to keep one of the state traveling libraries at the school, so that the students can avail themselves of the opportunity of examination of books for securing such a library are given so that the country teachers may obtain this very valuable educational agency in any rural district of the county. Already many schools have such libraries in county districts.

Roosevelt Program. The literary society is planning to devote a program to the life and service of Theodore Roosevelt. It is said that this wonderful man and statesman achieved real commanding greatness in more fields of human endeavor than any other man in history. The Rock County training school has in late years enrolled a larger percentage of high school graduates than most of the county training schools. This year about half of the graduating class will comprise graduates of Rock county high schools. The present law of the state requires the completion of two years of high school work before taking the year of professional training. It is quite probable that this maximum requirement will not be raised for several years, owing to the exigencies of war conditions and after the war scarcity of teachers.

Books and Materials Sent Out. Recently the training school has been sending out an unusual quantity of material and a number of books to country teachers. Several teachers have been getting Thompson's tests in arithmetic, geography, and language. A number are asking for the loan of professional books. The training school is in a position to assist in many ways and the management is especially anxious to help teachers who are actually at work. A few of the spelling and writing scales are still on hand for those who need them.

No Work in Agriculture. Rock county is not to have a county agricultural agent, and so the special work in agriculture at the training school will not be carried out, this year. Mr. Markham's course in winter were exceedingly helpful, and it is regretted that they cannot be continued.

Influenza and County Schools. Many county schools have lost a good deal of time on account of influenza and the end is apparently not yet in sight. It is of course better to be safe than sorry, but it is a pertinent question whether school boards have always been good in closing schools. Health officers are the representatives of the state law and should be consulted. Many times the board acts on its own judgment, which may not be altogether reliable. Does not significance attach itself to the fact that the schools have not been closed in the two largest cities of the country, New York and Chicago?

Graduates Visit School. Mizpah Bennett, class of 1917, and Harriet Donnelly, class of 1918, were recent visitors to the training school. Both of these young women are teaching country schools in Rock County, and both were having enforced vacations on account of influenza epidemics.

Aids in Agriculture. The International Harvester company is prepared to supply agricultural charts, lantern slides, stencils, booklets, etc., for use in homes, rural and graded schools. This material is offered free to teachers except for the expense of shipping. Those desiring such material should address the International Harvester Company, Chicago, Ill.

Get 7 Per Cent for YOUR Money

We are selling "across the counter" direct to Milwaukee and Wisconsin people an issue of $3,800,000 of 7%, 5-year, bond-secured Gold Notes of The Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Company. More than a million dollars' worth of the Notes have been bought in the first 30 days, mostly by Milwaukee people who know the Company and the property.

Issuance and sale of these Notes was authorized by the Wisconsin Railroad Commission to finance the growth of greater Milwaukee's electric service system.

Principal of the Notes will be repaid in cash Nov. 1, 1923.

These Notes are on sale in $50, $100, $500 and $1,000 sizes. They sell at par. Your Notes start drawing 7% interest for you from the day you buy them. You draw interest twice a year—May 1 and Nov. 1—by simply cutting off your interest coupon, taking it to the nearest bank, and getting cash for it. These Notes are readily saleable in case of need.

Milwaukee is as solidly prosperous as any city in the world. This Company supplies virtually all of Milwaukee's electric power, light, heat and transportation services. The State-appraised value of the property back of the Notes exceeds funded debt by over $16,000,000. The State rate regulation law assures a reasonable yearly return on State-appraised value. Besides being a general obligation of The Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Company, these Notes are further secured by deposit of $4,500,000 of 40-year bonds of the Milwaukee Light, Heat & Traction Company with the First Trust Company of Milwaukee as Trustee for the Note buyers. These Companies, thus joint guarantors of these Notes, during their twenty-two years in business have never failed to pay on the due date every dollar of their obligations, with interest as agreed.

Is YOUR MONEY earning 7% with equal SAFETY? If not, we shall be glad to sell you some of these Notes.

Janesville buyers and vicinity are ASKED TO ORDER FROM THE MERCHANTS & SAVINGS BANK OR DIRECT FROM THE COMPANY. Address: SECURITIES DEPARTMENT, Public Service Building, Milwaukee, Wisconsin. You can send payment with order, or, if you wish it, we will deliver the Notes in care of your home bank, C. O. D. If your home banker sell you something else paying a lower interest rate, you can tell him the Milwaukee banks have bought hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of these Notes, for themselves and their customers.

A WOMAN'S BUSINESS

WHY GIRLS ARE "PESTERED."

When dinner was over and Millie was reinforced by the first decent meal she had eaten in months, she took her fork and knife and went into her room to hear the rest of her story.

"Prader's firing me" narrated Millie with directness and brevity. "But I don't go when he asks me to lunch and dinner."

"Ah—the old familiar tale. It was a story Janet had sneered at more or less all her life. And as a successful business woman, she felt a certain contempt for the girl who was always being 'fired' and 'pestered' and then 'fired' again. While she was thinking this she was looking steadily at Millie and Millie was continuing with her story.

"It ain't that I don't want the meals. Gawd knows, Miss Stedman, I ain't had a regular dinner in seven months. I'd eat your tonight. But I'm going to live decent and earn my way like—like you and the stenographers in the office. It's dead certain Prader ain't spending his good money on me. Us girls know a few things, either that or come across or get fired, that's all there is to it."

Millie's words had the air of truth. Millie's face, with its coating of cheap powder, was sincere, her blue eyes direct and steady. Janet knew she could leave Millie's position for her, but she did not wish to cut the story short. She wanted to find out why the Millie had such a hard row, and how it could be made easier.

"Don't you think," she asked Millie, "that you imagine Mr. Prader has wrong intentions? He is an important man in our office."

"Oh, shucks!—(I beg your pardon, Miss Stedman, didn't I tell you? Heavy on her sister, both fired? And didn't another girl leave after telling thought of him? And don't I know him before half the office what she said the red-haired girl in the inspection department told me the other day? She can do as she likes; I ain't no judge of her. But I ain't ready to let that myself yet, Miss Stedman. The only reason he don't pester you," added Millie with sudden personal allusion, "is because he doesn't."

"Why 'doesn't' he? Is he such a wretch as you describe?"

"Don't you know? Why, because you'd leave and he couldn't fill your job. He can fill your job in twenty minutes. A man—even a natural skunk like him—don't dast be fresh with a smart girl. It's only us seven-dollar girls that gets pestered."

So that was the answer. Janet realized for the first time in her life that a girl's only perfect armor is efficiency. She had always vaguely supposed it was up to the girl herself, her manner, her clothes, her face, her deportment. She herself had always been a good worker an asset to her employer. Her labor returned big percentage of profit to him. That, then, was why she had so safely sailed the seas of self-support.

"No man with brains in his head," Millie was continuing, "is gonna quarrel with a money-maker. It's dead certain Prader knows that. He's got a cold business sense that keeps Prader and others like him from interfering with you and—ladies like you. You may think it's your quiet manners and your neat clothes, but it ain't. It's just because you're onto your job."

"Why don't you get onto your job, then, Millie? Learn to be valuable?"

Millie gazed. "Me? I gotta swell chance gettin' educated. My father earns sixteen a week and there's six of us kids. I gotta be a cash girl for three-fifty a week before I finished the sixth grade."

"You could go to night school."

Millie tried to keep her face from being withering as she explained the duties she had when she got home at night—dish washing, laundering her shirts, tending the young ones—

"I gotta swell chance gettin' educated," repeated Millie.

"I'll see you keep your place," said Janet.

And when Millie had gone, Janet and her husband talked till the wee small hours.

THE CAUSE OF CANCER

The nature of cancer, and hence its cause, is unknown. All sorts of theories have been proposed to explain the great and apparently increasing prevalence of this disease. Most of the theories can be applied when considered in connection with any considerable number of cancer cases.

That cancer consists of an abnormal growth of the ordinary tissue cells of the structure or organ involved. It is an anarchy of growth, and anarchy in any body must be destroyed or it will eventually destroy the body.

Constant irritation and untimely treatment, ill-usage, damage done by injury, congenital defects, and the application of poisons of various kinds seem to be the predisposing factors of anarchy in the body.

Eighty-five per cent of all cancers of the lips, tongue and throat occur in tobacco smokers.

Good dentistry, as opposed to the bargain kind, is recognized as one of the preventatives of cancer in the mouth.

One-third of all cancers in civilized men occur in the stomach, and a man has to be pretty thoroughly ignorant in order to "know" how to abate his stomach as a regular habit. The eating of very hot food, or food to highly seasoned with condiments, and the drinking of stimulating beverages such as whiskey, ginger ale, carbonated water, including plain soda water, must be included among the predisposing causes of cancer of the stomach.

The irritation of excessive soft tissue about the mouth, and the repair of incompletely repaired after childbirth has always been considered an important predisposing cause of the most frequent and fatal variety of all cancers, cancer of the womb in mothers of large families.

That irritation of frequent shaving over a trifling wart or pimple on the cheek, or of frequent pinching, or picking at such a lesion, appears to be a common predisposing cause of cancer of the face, which is prone to develop in such a site after middle age.

Cancer may occur in children, youths, or at any age, though it is most common at or after middle age. Cancer is not inherited, and there is no evidence that it is a communicable disease.

A.—Neither has a patient who actually has kidney disease, as a general rule.

Q.—Another That Dies Hard

He seemed to think my liver was hardened. I have been dieting of calomel, scarcely a week has passed without a calomel purge. Could I ANSWER—Calomel has no known effect on the liver. It is merely a cathartic, and a very crude one at that. Calomel is prescribed more out of respect for the traditions of medicine than for any other benefits the drug can produce. Calomel has far less effect on the liver than a doctor's armamentarium, and calomel oil has almost no effect at all. These antiquated methods of medicine have been put away in the medical museum along with angel-worm juice and leeches.

Will you please tell me just how to take the yeastcakes you recommended for clearing the blood of impurities. Do you mean the common yeastcakes such as grocers sell for baking? (Mrs. S.)

ANSWER—I have never suggested or recommended yeast to clear the blood of impurities. Sometimes one ordinary yeast cake may be taken after each meal or after two meals daily for several weeks as a remedy for obstinate pimples or boils. The yeast cake should be mixed with cool water, or put in a glass of beer, and drunk with assistance to drink. Yes, any yeast cake sold for baking is right. Pimples or boils have nothing to do with the purity of impurity of the blood or of the individual affected.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a soldier who has just returned from France. When I was at camp another soldier asked me to write to his cousin. She answered her letter and after a time we exchanged photographs. We corresponded several months in all and it is strange but we never mentioned our ages. I am twenty-six years old and just from the front picture that she was about twenty. I have since learned that she is sixteen.

In the past months I have learned to love her more than anyone I have ever known. But upon my return I find that her parents object to my seeing her. She cares for me. Is it right for them to separate us in this way?

The girl's parents are right in objecting to her having a sweetheart when she is only sixteen. If you drop all reference to love for a year or two they may be willing to let you call occasionally. Later, if your love lasts, you will be free to ask her to marry you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am engaged to a man whom I no longer love. At one time he did everything I wanted him to do and gave me all possible attention. I was never without more candy than I could eat and went to the show once or twice a week.

I am not selfish, but when I marry I expect to have a happier life than I have at the time and do nothing but kiss my husband. This boy shows now that he would like nothing better. He thinks he has got me and some he has stopped bringing candy and letters and now he sits in the house even to make a call on some friend. He drops in every night and won't go home when I tell him I am tired and go to bed. For what reason would you do in case like this? I used to love the boy so much that I could not bear the thought of losing him, but I cannot love him when he doesn't talk nor do anything but kiss me. DISAPPOINTED.

Your letter is fortunate in that it makes me realize before marrying him. Break your engagement and tell him the reason for doing so. You would be miserable married to a man so easily satisfied and so lacking in ambition.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am interested to know what the different kinds of uniforms are for the soldiers and sailors' uniforms. Will you kindly give me this information?

Small books are for sale at book stores for very little cost. They give this and other interesting information about the army and navy insignia.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: It is correct for a girl of sixteen to attend a high school dance with a boy the same age? SWEET SIXTEEN.

I think it is correct for young people to attend school and neighborhood parties together. Such a thing is different from having callers several nights a week at going to big dances or theaters.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl, good-looking, have black hair and black eyes and I am satisfied with myself in every way but one. I have always had a bad taste in my mouth. I can't get it like other girls on this point. I have had my teeth cleaned and fixed and that shows they are not the cause. Could you advise me what to do?

The bad taste in your mouth might come from one of several physical disorders. You may have catarrh, stomach trouble or diseased tonsils. The only thing to do is to consult a reliable physician and have him diagnose your case and prescribe a remedy or diet.

Boston Cream Toast—Cut slices of one day's old bread and toast to a delicate brown. Prepare a cream sauce and prepare a dip each toast slice in it. Lay the slices on a platter the other in a deep dish and pour the balance of the cream over and around the toast. This is one of the celebrated dishes in the homes of New England.

Eggs and Toast for Breakfast—Slice white bread for toast. Trim off the brown crust, leaving in reserve for the bread crumbs. Brown delicately. You may leave the crusts on if you wish, but in this case moisten the edges slightly. Break an egg for each slice, separating the white from the yolk. Beat the former to the centers of the toast slices well buttered and surround each golden disk with spoonfuls of the beaten white.

Perhaps it is the little pink or red in the hot oven till the edges of the white are golden, like a meringue. The yolk will then be done sufficiently. Salt sparingly, a little paprika or black pepper if you prefer, and a flick or so of butter. Send to the table on your old blue breakfast plates, with piping hot coffee.

Cornmeal Sift together three level teaspoons baking powder, one cup cornmeal and one cup flour. Separate two eggs; add to the yolks a half pint or one cup of milk. Beat thoroughly. Add the well-beaten whites and bake in greased corn pans in a quick oven 20 minutes.

Waffles—Rub two tablespoons of butter in a quart of sifted flour; add a cup of milk and mix thoroughly. Beat the yolks of three eggs and add a pint and a half of milk; add to this the flour, beat with an egg beater five minutes and let them stand until bubbling. When you are ready to bake them, put in the center of the batter four level tablespoons of baking powder; beat this well into the mixture. Fold in the milk. Turn the mixture at once into a pitcher and it is ready to use.

Removing Ink Stains—When a wash garment gets stained with ink, blot up the ink with water cover the stain with salty grease well rubbed and let stand for twelve hours or more before washing.

No Mashed Mush—Fried mush will take very little fat in the frying if made with part milk. Or sift two-thirds cup flour with cornmeal and make the usual way. It will brown quickly.

Water Cleanser—To clean the water that is made dark by coal smoke at this time of year, put one pound box powdered borax and one pound powdered alum into the cistern. If the cistern or tank is extra large twice the amount may be used. In twenty-four hours the water will be clear, the dark part having settled.

Clean out the attic by getting rid of odds and ends stored there. A little classified ad will do the trick.

SIDE TALKS

—BY—
RUTH CAMERON

What proportion of his income should a man save?

We fell to discussing that the other day and, of course, ran up against the inevitable and wholly unsatisfying answer—"That depends on circumstances."

Of course, one might make the answer—"All you possibly can," but I do not think that is either satisfactory or true, as people would translate it so differently.

How Some People Would Translate It

There would be the people who, after they had paid for all the things that they had owed to their standing in life—the right kind of an apartment, the proper schools for their children, the kind of a car that wouldn't compromise the husband's reputation of successful business man, a thousand dollar dentist to straighten Dottie's teeth, and a little bungalow (with two baths) at a respectable summer place—couldn't possibly save at all.

And, on the other hand, there would be the people who would translate "all you possibly can" to mean the need of squeezing their lives dry of all pleasures and comforts and all educational advantages.

Those Abnormal People Who Never Save at All

Every normal person sees the need of saving. Once in a while one meets people living on a salary without making the slightest effort to save a cent; but this is not normal. We all mean to save, and most of us do save. The question is—how much? We are doing too much or too little for our circumstances? I think it would be very interesting to know what some of our reader friends do, and what we might have some of their budgets.

We had a symposium once before on how much the different readers found themselves able to give away. Let us have something on the subject of saving. Tell us the total income, number in family, and how much you save. Probably you will prefer not to sign your name. That will prevent a personal acknowledgment, but will give you a more comfortable anonymity.

Tell Us How to Save.

Tell me, too, in what way you save. I am a great believer, myself, in such enforced savings as co-operative shares and endowment insurance. It makes more will power to put a sum in the bank than you have merely promised yourself to save, than to pay an insurance which you have, have also promised the company to pay. A Guide to GOOD MANNERS

When entering a ballroom a woman always precedes a man, even if he is her father. Except on very rare occasions a man and woman never enter the ballroom arm in arm.

A young woman if not at once asked to dance upon entering the ballroom should seat herself beside her chaperone. Unless her program is full she cannot refuse to dance with her hostess' son nor can she refuse to dance with one young man and give the same dance to another.

A woman may not ask to be excused from dancing unless she is indisposed or dances no more during the entire evening. The young man who foregoes the dance is not obliged to sit through the dance nor should she suggest it.

TIPPECANOE

Being a True Chronicle of Certain Passages Between DAVID LARRENCE and ANTOINETTE O'BANNON in the Battle of Tippecanoe in the Indiana Wilderness, and of What Befell Thereafter in Old Corydon and now first set forth

By SAMUEL MCCOY
Illustrations by DeAlton Valentine.

David was swept into the midst of a group of young people; but the chatter in his ears ceased, as far as he was concerned, when he saw Toinette radiant among the rest. Like Blackford joined them, and when she had heard what the men had been discussing, the girl demanded why the two had not yet joined Spencer's company of militia.

"So you want us to get shot, do you?" teased Blackford. "I know that we're a worthless pair, but I didn't think we were that bad."

"Stop being funny, Mr. Blackford. I should think you two great, strong men would be eager to enlist and help drive out these terrible Indians for good."

"Well, I'm as ready as the next man to have the Indians leave us in peace," declared David slowly. "But I've never been a soldier and I don't believe that I'd make a very good one."

"Pshaw!" cried Toinette indignantly. "You're just as able to be a soldier as anyone in the territory. You are, you know you are."

"Measure us for our coffins, David," laughed Blackford. "We may just as well give in to her first as last."

David laughed too. But he was silent, thinking more of Toinette's words than of Blackford's. He continued his chaffing:

"No, we're neither of us soldiers. David's fast becoming the merchant Croesus of the West, and I'm a lawyer, though I'd hate to have the late innuendo Blackstone hear me say that. He'd roll over. I've spent the best years of my young life cooped up in Judge Ford's office in Morris-town, wrestling with McNally's 'Rules of Evidence' when I should have been shedding a lustre over the social life of New Jersey, and I don't feel as if it would be right for me to throw away all this mighty erudition just to give some red-skinned gentleman the pleasure of wearing the scalp of a future chief justice at his belt, or even the pleasure of my acquaintance. I expect to have very

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing like Plain Bitter-Phosphate to Put On Firm, Healthy Flesh and To Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making this people flesh, developing arms neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness. Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the famous phosphate known among the druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and sold by Smith Drug Co. in Janesville, and almost all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food element, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing. This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompanies excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION:—Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

PETEY DINK—The Successful Fortune Teller Tells You What You Want to Hear

few cheats among our red brethren, very few. Somehow, they seem to prefer retaining a hatchet, rather than a hatchet-faced attorney. Though, for the matter of that, I don't believe I can blame them. Judge Hurst tells me that in spite of all of Governor Harrison's efforts to put the little unpleasants of the frontier to decision by the courts, there hasn't been one white man hanged for the murder of an Indian since the territory was begun, and that there never will be.

"But seriously, Miss O'Bannon," Blackford went on—"there can't be so great a necessity for drilling around with a lot of militiamen just now, can there? They make me think of Falstaff's opinion of his ragged recruits: 'I'll not march through Coventry with them, that's flat.'"

"Necessity!" cried Toinette. "Oh, you haven't been here long enough to hear the reports of all their cruelties! Haven't you talked with any of these backwoodsmen whose families have been cut down and massacred and tortured? But I don't care—go on and practice your old law! There'll be plenty of other lawyers to shoulder a gun. If they get killed there'll be just that much more chance for you to succeed."

Blackford winced. Toinette was so dangerously near angry tears that he was sorry he had jested as he had.

"Well, well," he replied soothingly. "David and I will try to measure up to your idea of a man if things get any more serious. I'll promise you that David will knock down dozens of savages with his yardstick and I'll tie them hand and foot with red tape."

"You're both simply hateful," declared Toinette; and the subject was dropped.

CHAPTER VI.

Moonlight.

"David was thoughtful, while the light banter ran on.

"Governor Harrison," he said, "may I have a word with you alone? I have some information that I wish to lay before you."

The young governor bowed assent and led the way to a quiet corner. David told the story of the meeting between Girty, Cramer and Scull. Harrison's face grew grave.

"Why did you not report this sooner?" he asked sharply.

"I wrote at once to John Tipton, at Vincennes," David answered. "I asked him to tell you immediately. I have had no reply from him, but I thought you would be interested in the story."

"He broke off abruptly: 'Wouldn't it be fine to have a wench hanging to your cantal as you march!'"

He said good night abruptly at Toinette's door and went on.

When he had gone, they two, David and Toinette, lingered on. They knew not why, under the moon-drenched trees.

"And now," she said, leaning toward him in the moonlight, "tell me how you like Corydon—as much as you know of us."

He was so happy at seeing her that it was easy for him to fall into her own lightness of speech.

"Ah, I fell in love with America years ago—on the day I reached Corydon. Now I am only bothered to know if America likes me."

"Why, of course she likes you—look what she has done for you already."

Her glance rested on his healthy, vigorous form approvingly.

"Yes, but her favors reproach me now; I am afraid I can never accomplish what this country expects of her young men."

She pretended to look at him thoughtfully. "No, I don't suppose you can ever climb very high."

She laughed teasingly. "How do you like your work?"

"Selling toys to the Indians and laces to the ladies? Not very romantic."

"I should think the ladies would be romantic, even if the Indians are not."

"Oh, but they all want soldiers; I'm only a weaver by trade."

"That reminds me—you've never told me about your life in England. Please do it now—but wait, I'll tell you."

"Governor Harrison, May I Have a Word With You Alone?"

have supposed that he gave you the message. John's handkerchief with his rifle than with a pen, Governor Harrison, as you know.

"Yes," smiled Harrison. "It's agony for him to write. But I fear that he has not received your letter even yet. He has been away on a hunting and scouting trip for weeks. I myself am going away for a while, but I shall inform General Gibson, who is to have charge of the territory in my absence, and shall direct him to have his rangers make a thorough search for these men. As for Tecumseh, rumors that his brother, Elskatawa, the Prophet, is stirring the warriors to discontent have reached my ears. Rest assured, Mr. Lawrence, that we shall keep careful watch over these matters. I thank you for what you have told me."

David felt that a load had been lifted from his mind. He had done his duty to the land that had received him with such simple hospitality. "I know Cramer," the governor went on. "but I never suspected so honest-appearing a fellow. You say he went to Vincennes? I am certain that he has not been there of late. Let me know if he returns to Corydon. The whole Northwest has reason to know that renegade Girty, but I fear it is useless to hope for his capture now. He knows the wilderness like an Indian. As well hope to find a wild bird in the tree tops. By now he is doubtless back in the British posts above Erie. You say that the third man was one known to you as Scull? The name is a new one. Strange, how he disappeared. We'll watch for him."

He returned to his friends with an added word of thanks. David's face darkened as he thought once more of Scull. Where was he? How could he hide himself so completely? The memory of the man's betrayal of David's father rose up in David anew; and he thought once more of the oath that he had sworn, over the "purple posy" of the weaver's brotherhood, to avenge that wrong.

When the party had broken up at last in laughing, "good nights," Toinette, Blackford and David strolled toward Toinette's home together. He began humming a song as they walked along:

Could you to battle march away,
And leave me here complaining—
"A mighty fine evening, wasn't it?"

I'm sure 'twould break my heart to say,
When you were gone campaigning. . . .

"Trust a woman to suit her own sweet will."

"What's the song like?"

"That? Oh, a catch that we used to sing at Princeton. Poor old Billy Patterson wrote it years ago, rest his soul! The late attorney general—class of 1763," he added explanatorily. His rich tenor swung on into the list of the choruses:

"Ah, non, non, non, pauvre Madelon,
Would never quit her Rover.
Ah, non, non, non, pauvre Madelon,
Would go with you the wide world over!"

He broke off abruptly: "Wouldn't it be fine to have a wench hanging to your cantal as you march!'"

your myself." She narrated closer her eyes and began reflectively: "Let me see—I'm looking into the past. You may not know it, but I'm a real Irish soothsayer." She set the ghost of a delicious bit of brogue linger on her tongue. "I'm beginning to see your ancestral estates now. Gracious, a dual palace takes shape!"

"There's no doubt about your being an Irish soothsayer," David commented sarcastically. "the dual castle was certainly there, but unfortunately it belonged to the duke of Newcastle. Our dual castle was behind St. John's palace in Bottle lane; it had one room in it and no floor."

"That's nothing to be ashamed of—half the cabins in the woods here are no larger, and their floors are earthen too."

"Ah, but every settler here has as much land as the duke of Newcastle! Air to breathe, freedom!"

"You interrupted me—be quiet, I won't finish. You idled about the estate all day long or you rode over the countryside with your hounds."

"His name was Timon, that one mongrel of mine; he had friends who lived on him—I beg your pardon."

"Horrors! Will you be quiet! And at night you lay on silken cushions in front of the great fireplace, reading some tale of the court."

"I know it was wrong, but one is naturally idle after twelve hours at the loom. I did read a good deal with Harry White."

"Who was Harry White?"

"Harry White was my best friend. Henry Kirke White—the son of Mr. White, the butcher. He was just my own age. We worked together at a stocking loom when we were fourteen, making stockings, but the next year his father apprenticed him to a firm of attorneys."

"And you kept on as a weaver?"

"I kept on as a weaver. But he lent me his books at night. He was as poor as I was, and he drove himself into his grave with study. He died when he was twenty-one, five years ago. But Mr. Southey, the poet laureate, collected all the poems Harry had written."

"A poet? A butcher's son?"

"He had won a sizarship at Cambridge when he was nineteen—he had got his first poems printed the year before. That was how he attracted Mr. Southey's attention."

"And he's dead? Oh, I'm so sorry!"

"He told me once that a friend he had made at Cambridge, a boy named George Gordon, Lord Byron, said that his poems would never die."

"He was a poet too?"

"I think so. He is living yet. He's only twenty-three."

"Why, you're only twenty-six, yourself! Don't talk like a grandfather!"

"I feel like one."

"Why?"

"The sympathy in her voice was as sincere as that in her eyes. David had never known such a woman—had never known what it was to have the divine sympathy of womanhood. He began to tell her of his life, of his sufferings, of his hopes for the future, of his aspirations; and through it all the girl listened, a white rose in the moonlight, and poured the balm of her pure spirit upon his head."

DINNER STORIES

"John," said the clergyman to his new man, "do you—er—ever employ strong language?"

The new man blushed self-consciously. "Well, sir," he faltered, "I—I may be a little careless-like in my speech at times."

"Ah," murmured the clergyman, "I'm sorry, John—I'm sorry! But we will converse on that at some future time. Just now I want you to get to Jenkins and Blackstone and settle this bill for repairing my summer house. And you might talk to them, John, as if it were your own bill, in a careless-like sort of way. Will you, John?"

Mrs. Ambsbury, the superintendent of the penitentiary, was escorting a party of women visitors through the building. They entered a room where three women were busily sewing.

As they turned to leave the room one of the visitors said:

"What vicious-looking creatures! What are they all in for? They really look capable of committing any crime."

"Well," replied the superintendent, "you see, they have no other home. That is my private sitting room, and they are my wife and two daughters."

LAKOTAS WILL PLAY ELGINS ON WEDNESDAY

"Barefoot" Adams and His Team Will Invade Janesville for Next Game on Cardinal Schedule

Local basket ball fans will see several strange faces on the floor Wednesday evening when the Lakota Cardinals meet the "Elgins" headed "Barefoot" Adams. Owing to the inability of Peterson to play with the Cardinals, Captain Hemming journeyed to Madison on Saturday to sign two players.

Every effort is being made to strengthen the team for the Wednesday game as the Elgins are credited with having one of the strongest teams in the middle west. They have won every game so far this season and are out for the championship of the middle west.

The Cardinals are equally determined to win the game and the team on Wednesday will be a greatly improved aggregation. Mike Knapp, well known in this city and the running partner of the late Lieut. John Mitchell has again donned a uniform at Madison and it is hoped that Mike can be persuaded to play in this city.

Pee-wee Benway of the Olympic club former star forward of the Washington university may be in a Cardinal suit for the Elgin game. Benway is undoubtedly one of the greatest forwards in the game to day and his work against the Cardinals last week caused a great deal of comment.

A telegram was received by Captain Hemming this morning stating that the Detroit Y. M. C. would be in Janesville on Wednesday February 19th for a game. The Detroit quintet is to play five games in this state and the local game will be the first of the series.

On Wednesday February 27th, the Olympic club will return to this city for another contest. The team has been strengthened since their last point defeat and will have two new players, George Adams and Albert Tauckel. George Adams is not a stranger to Janesville and always displays a powerful exhibition of basket ball skill with his this season a quarter and a team which will make a bid for the mid western championship.

Cellar Championship in Church League to Be Decided Tonight

Much interest is shown in the bowling match between the Episcopalians and Presbyterians at the Y. M. C. A. tonight. The cellar championship of the church league hinges on the game this evening. Neither team has won a game this year so the match promises to be hotly contested.

STARS PLAY THREE GAMES THIS WEEK

Heavy Schedule Arranged—Will Meet Edgerton, Badgers, and Senior "Y" Teams

This week will be a strenuous one for the "Y" All-Stars. They have three games scheduled, clashing with Edgerton, the Senior "Y" team, and the Badgers.

Tomorrow night they will meet the Badgers, a team composed of local high school graduates, in a game at the "Y" gym beginning at eight-thirty. Thursday evening they will journey to Edgerton to play a return game with the team which they defeated here last week, while Saturday they will take on a team composed of members of the Senior Y. M. C. A. class at the "Y" gym.

This contest will probably be the hardest of the week as they will have to play the second round of the C. A. class at the "Y" gym.

The line-up for the Stars for all games will be: Fullman, If, Babcock, Hager, Graf, Graesslin, Margo, and Lobbecke.

Crowd of 400 at Auction

Hay Sold for $40 Per Ton. Horses Bought $217.50
Cows Averaged $120

BECAUSE THE SALE WAS ADVERTISED IN THE GAZETTE

Read the following letter. It is the strongest kind of an endorsement for Gazette Action Advertising:

Janesville Daily Gazette.

Gentlemen:

My auction sale on January 20th, was a decided success; thanks to Gazette advertising and Col. Dooley. There was a crowd of about 400 at the auction, which was held on my farm in the town of Janesville on Route No. 7.

Four horses averaged $161 each, the highest bringing $217.50; ten cows averaged $10 each (neither the horses or cows were thoroughbreds). Eight heifers averaged $76.50 each; four fall calves brought $108.

HAY SOLD FOR $40 per ton.

Corn in shock was bought for $2.50 per shock. Thirty-five shocks of corn in stack sold for $212.50.

Machinery and everything sold for good prices.

The total amount of the sale was $4,030 (hogs, grain, corn in crib, chickens, etc., were NOT included in the above amount).

If I had it to do over again I should use twice as much space in The Daily Gazette so that everybody in Rock County would know of my auction. Many buyers at my sale came from as far away as 25 miles and I know that the only means they had of knowing about my sale was the three advertisements I had you print in your paper.

Col. Dooley certainly did fine work and I would heartily recommend him to any farmer who is going to have an auction.

(Signed) OTTO KORBAN, Janesville, Wis., Rte. 7.
